Task 1

At the mention of the naughty child, we held our breath. She would probably arrive late and would therefore miss assembly.

Task 2

The answer is often the opposite of what you'd expect. It is a surprise when there is an ordinary solution!

Task 3

The weight of various women was different when measured. When asked the question, "Why?" scientists had many possible answers.

Task 4

My favourite month is February because we can look forward to spring. We have managed through the winter and our hearts begin to lift.

Task 5

Yesterday, I heard a peculiar fact. Although it is strange, they say that famous people are often unhappy.

Task 6

On safari, our guide seemed to come from the last century. His position allowed him to lead the group despite the fact that he looked weird enough to be on television.

Task 7

I believe that grammar is very important. It will increase our interest in reading and writing.

Task 8

In the past scientists perhaps thought that strength was caused by eight different things. I suppose that they might be right!

Task 9

While carrying out an extreme experiment, Dr Mad fell straight out of his special machine. He will need a lot of medicine to help him recover.

Task 10

I was given notice of a special occasion. A party! My family and I would promise to remember but would have to go in separate cars.

Task 11

At playtime, we played with fruit and vegetables. I caught a banana but then let down my guard. When some potatoes hit me in the ear, I cried. What a horrible experience.

Task 12

We learn to write a sentence. When I complete mine, I am certain that my teacher will not be able to circle any mistakes. Then I will be able to breathe again.

Task 13

Oops! I had an accident. I tried to build a calendar on the centre of my desk, out of cake. What a disaster! I fear it will disappear when my brother gets home.

Task 14

In a minute there will be a natural disaster. I know that it is difficult to imagine but somewhere an island is about to sink into the sea.

Task 15

You would need to get up early to appear keener than I. My recent form suggests that I will make history because of my sense of purpose. Who knows, one day I may even reign over the whole country!

Task 16

It is hard to describe how much I continue to love the library. I walk the length of the shelves and wonder about the purpose of all those books. This is good exercise for the body and brain.

Task 17

My actual address is not really Buckingham Palace, London although I convinced eight people that it was last week. If they consider the matter carefully, they will see that I could not bicycle from London to Cinderford daily.

Task 18

My knowledge of fractions is improving. I can show you a quarter of a pizza, therefore I possess a clear understanding of division too. This particular skill will be useful all my life though I did wonder if I'd ever see it clearly.

Task 19

Sunflowers grow surprisingly quickly. The pressure of growing to that height must be huge. It's a good thing that the material they are made from is strong. The business of growing them would be much harder if they were weak. Mind you, they do occasionally fall over. Disaster!
